One student's answer ranged from a speech by Jefferson Davis, to a Revolutionary War speech, and finally the Gettysburg Address. One student who knew that it was the Declaration of Independence assumed a lofty air of superiority when his grill-friend was having a hard time identifying it, and gave him a clue, "John Hancock wrote it." He gave no credit to Thomas Jefferson for his political treatise nor to Thomas Paine, much of whose political philosophy Jefferson adopted.

Fraternities Back On Spot For Unusual Reason: Grades

Fraternities are on the spot again for the usual reason—poor scholarship. This time it is the pledge standing for the past semester that is drawing faculty and administration fire. And again the fraternities can offer little defense for the figure, 1.04 this time, that represents the cumulative average of their pledges.

Poor fraternity scholarship has long been a sore point with the faculty members at UK and they have indicated that they intend to take action of their own to correct the situation unless the fraternities do a rapid job of improvement on their own.

They can hardly be blamed, but the plan they now have under consideration for taking social privileges from fraternities which do not maintain an average equal to the all men's average will not solve the problem. True, it may give the fraternities an incentive for improvement, but the actual work will still have to be done by the individual organizations.

If the IFC is interested in maintaining what little self-government fraternities now have, it should take immediate and positive action. The basis for this action has been laid in the issuing of a committee report consisting of eight suggestions for the improvement of fraternity scholarship (see page 1 story). Suggestions, however, are a long way from being positive action and no one knows this better than the IFC. Suggestions for the improvement of scholarship have been made by the IFC time and time again in the past with little or no improvement resulting. To actually improve scholarship the IFC will have to see that their suggestions become enforced rules.

Students, and Greeks in particular, complain bitterly about excessive administration control. But when they are given the opportunity to govern themselves they are liable to do such a slipshod half-hearted job that you can hardly blame

Poll Shows Loyalty Oath Out Of Favor With Students

The loyalty oath is somewhat out of favor, according to the results reached by the ACP National Poll of Student Opinion taken recently throughout the country.

College students generally disapprove of such measures, especially graduate students.

Students in 63 colleges and universities were asked: In general, do you approve or disapprove of having college professors take an oath stating that they are NOT members of the Communist Party?

The results were: approve, 39 percent; disapprove, 47 percent; no opinion, 12 percent; and other alternatives, 2 percent.

The higher the student in school the more likely he was to disapprove, as the percentages ran to 56 percent and 58 percent for the juniors and seniors respectively. The graduate students ran the highest with 73 percent disapproving.

Comments range from cryptic retorts to fairly lengthy explanations. A sophomore from a west coast university, who disapproves, asks, "Is this a democracy?"

A junior coed in Education says she approves because loyalty oaths "protect the students" from harmful influence and propaganda. Another coed in Education, who opposes the oath, feels that "college students should be able to discriminate between education and propaganda."

A few of the schools polled do not fit into the general opinion pattern. A small military college in the south, for example, is 82 percent in favor of the loyalty oath.

In the past we have been criticized by students and administration both for being "anti-student government." Nothing could be further from the truth. What we are actually against is misuse of the power of self government by the students intrusted with it. This misuse can only result in the withdrawal of that power.

What the fraternities are actually facing is something much more serious than the temporary loss of social privileges. If they do not take proper action now they may lose the last vestiges of self-government.

Brotherhood Is Key To Basic Problem

Sunday marks the opening of the annual "Brotherhood Week" sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Just what does this have to do with UK students, you ask. Not much really—just their future.

This is a day and age of modernization and mind-staggering mechanical achievements, but man's basic problem of living together peacefully has only become more difficult as a result of these achievements. For this problem is not one that can be solved by mechanical advances, even huge stockpiles of atomic bombs.

The solution now is the same as it always has been; the creation of a real feeling of brotherhood between all men. The only difference is the problem has become a great deal more serious in the last few years.

Perhaps this thing called brotherhood might merit a little extra thought next week—even by UK students.

Believes Wrong Persons Hurt By SAS Action

Dear Editor:

To what end does the controversial SAS make "Gestapo" raids on tavern owners and reprimand students who illegally purchase alcoholic beverages? Minors, whether by subterfuge or otherwise, who buy a highball or a bottle of beer willingly violate the law, and that's "bad".

Regardless of whether the law itself is just or unjust it must be rigidly enforced.

I must admit that my sympathy is with the respectable businessman, the honest retailer of this "bad alcohol". It is he you have hurt and not the purchaser (minor) of beer. Because of your actions, regardless of your motive, he has lost trade because he cannot afford to trust his clientele.

May I say to your protectors of the "meek and innocent", you'll never do much more than you have now—that is, to satisfy your own conscience. You'll never halt the sale of these beverages to minors and you'll never stop the desire to drink them. Still, I admire you.

Too many people are saying that our generation of youth is decadent, that they are satisfied to sit and watch, and that they are not "fired-up" with a lot of progressive and reformative ideals. It's just that your efforts are fruitless. Too many of your fellow students are guilty of violating the controversial law to be of assistance in your fight.

Not as long as any student can get away with forgery can you hope to cope with the situation. You see, you don't represent the student body, and the faculty does not approve your actions because of a small legal technicality. All you are fighting is an even smaller legal technicality.

Few people look on persons over 18 with disrespect because they have an occasional drink, and few fathers and mothers forbid people of college age to drink moderately. Your moral is good, but you don't represent a majority.

You cannot correct morals on a wholesale scale, and it's not your place to try.

Lawmakers Examine Mouth Of Well Known 'Gift Horse'

Recently, the boys down at the state legislature decided to honor UK with their presence at basketball games. So they prevailed upon Bart Peak, who seems to take his work seriously (an oddity among legislators), to wangle free passes for them.

Mr. Peak got the passes, but that didn't satisfy the boys. They came down the other night to see a game and what happened? They hollered like they had all been shot (which unfortunately is not the case) because Uncle Adolph did not give them uniforms and let them play the last half.

The next day, several of the great men raised the roof about the seats at the game. It seems Mr. Peak had got them seats quite a ways from the playing floor, which were the only ones available on such late notice. In fact, the students didn't even stand up, put their hands over their hearts, and sing "God Save the Legislature," when these demi-gods walked into the Coliseum.

One of the legislators arose in wrath and said, "They may have quit shaving points, but they certainly shaved us." Others echoed his dissatisfaction. Did they thank Mr. Peak for getting them some kind of seats at such a late date? Never. They just complained.

A resolution was introduced to spend $100,000 to fumigate the Coliseum, after the legislators disapproved of the way the Wildcats played. We have a better suggestion. Spend the $100,000 to educate the citizens, so they will send some lawmakers to the Legislature.

Comments range from cryptic retorts to fairly lengthy explanations. A sophomore from a west coast university, who disapproves, asks, "Is this a democracy?"

A junior coed in Education says she approves because loyalty oaths "protect the students" from harmful influence and propaganda. Another coed in Education, who opposes the oath, feels that "college students should be able to discriminate between education and propaganda."

A few of the schools polled do not fit into the general opinion pattern. A small military college in the south, for example, is 82 percent in favor of the loyalty oath.

Perhaps this thing called brotherhood might merit a little extra thought next week—even by UK students.

The loyalty oath is somewhat out of favor, according to the results reached by the ACP National Poll of Student Opinion taken recently throughout the country.

College students generally disapprove of such measures, especially graduate students.

Students in 63 colleges and universities were asked: In general, do you approve or disapprove of having college professors take an oath stating that they are NOT members of the Communist Party?

The results were: approve, 39 percent; disapprove, 47 percent; no opinion, 12 percent; and other alternatives, 2 percent.

The higher the student in school the more likely he was to disapprove, as the percentages ran to 56 percent and 58 percent for the juniors and seniors respectively. The graduate students ran the highest with 73 percent disapproving.

Patt Hall, Alpha Gams Praised For Last Weekend's Dances

Well, now that all of you lucky pus, whether they are Greeks or Indians, are back from Florida and dependent," points east, west and north, let's see what's happening on the Great Campus.

First of all, congratulations are in order to the gals of Patt Hall on their terrific dance last Friday night. Decorated in the Valentine theme, the main parlor scarcely resembled the everyday "date" room. Dave Parry and his orchestra provided smooth music for the many dancers.

Congratulations also go to the Alpha Gams on their dance, also held last Friday. The dance was their Third Annual Cerebral Palsy Benefit and was held at Joyland. All proceeds will go to the local school for Cerebral Palsy children. The Troubadours from Frankfort provided the music and the UK Trouopers gave a floor show during intermission.

Pi Kappa Sponsor Dance

Pi Kappa Alpha is again inviting everyone to attend their Second Annual All-Campus Dance tonight. Admission free, the dance will be from 8-12 p.m. in the SUB Ballroom. The Blue and White Orchestra will provide the music.

"The purpose of this informal dance," according to Charles Campbell, Pi Kap president, "is to bring about a more friendly association among all the students on the campus, whether they are Greeks or Indians."

The first of these dances, in the spring of 1950, attracted over 500 people.

Sororities Elect New Officers

Beta Psi of Alpha Delta Pi elected Doris Trosky president for the coming year. Other officers elected include: Virginia Roberson, vice-president; Phyllis Hart, secretary; Ernestine Huston, treasurer; Mary Jo Reynolds, rush chairman; and Judy Henry, house president.

Kappa Sigma recently initiated Shelly Linville and Doug Holliday.

Informal rush for the sororities began last Monday, with most of the sororities planning informal parties for the week. Rush for men closes today at noon. Fraternity rushing began after registration day.

New officers of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity include Jim Boggess, president; Joe Richardson, vice-president; George Burton, secretary; W. I. Glasscock, treasurer; John Monach, house manager; D. Holloman, steward; Richard Bink, sergeant at arms; and Jim Bondurant, chaplain.

Edith Cones Heads Zetas

Edith Cones was elected president of Zeta Tau Alpha in elections held last week. Other officers include Lee Dillon, vice-president; Lois Peterson, secretary; Lois Holland, treasurer; and Jan Ovelgonne, historian.

Theta of Kappa Alpha elected Gardner Turner to fill the unexpired term of President Thomas Clore. Clore is graduating. John Baughman replaces Gardner Turner as vice-president. Both will serve until March.

Re-elected to the presidency of Phi Sigma Kappa was Don Richardson. Other officers include: Tom Timmons, vice-president; Charles Negley, secretary; Tom McHenry, treasurer; Wes Bird, sentinel; and Albert Taylor, inductor.

Todd Heads Lamp and Cross

Lamp and Cross' Men's Leadership Honorary Society, recently elected Bosworth Todd president; Read Holland, vice-president; George Lawson, secretary; and James Hagen, treasurer.

Richard Haas is the new president of Sigma Chi fraternity. Other new officers of the fraternity include: Henry Durham, vice-president; Jack Rinehart, secretary; and Herbert Richardson, treasurer.

(Due to semi-chaotic (?) conditions prevailing in the Kernel Office this week, the pinned list was lost. Therefore, "the list ain't what it had ought to be.")

Prize To Be Given For Book Collection

Each year a prize, made possible by the designation of a sum of money in the will of the late Judge Samuel M. Wilson, is offered to the undergraduate student who has built up the best personal collection of books.

The award has always been based on the quality rather than the quantity of the collection. Each participant is asked to submit three copies of a typewritten list of the books in his library.

The books should be listed alphabetically by the author's last name, followed by the forename or initials. The title of the book should be followed by the place of publication, publisher, and date.

The annual Libel Show program of the College of Law was given Tuesday night at Joyland Casino.

The program, a burlesque on various members of the law staff, was sponsored by Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

Tuesday-night square dances, free to students and faculty, will continue to be sponsored this semester by the Lexington Folk Dance Center.

The dances are at 7:30 p.m. in the Women's Gymnasium and no previous experience is necessary to attend and participate.

There is a small charge for those not connected with the University.

The winner will be asked to present his library for examination by the committee and possibly for display. The award for this year is $25.

Book lists must be presented to the chairman of the committee, Room 402, Margaret I. King Library, not later than March 15. The award will be announced in time for the winner to be acknowledged on Honors Night.

All books listed must be the personal property of the student, and no books should be included which were received as gifts after Jan. 1.

Six girls and 100 boys make up the College of Law enrollment for the spring semester, almost the same as last semester, Acting Dean W. L. Matthews said.

We do hereby state that, as individual fraternities, we will strive to develop the inspiration and desire necessary to enable each member to achieve high scholarship. We, as an Interfraternity Council, hereby declare that we will use our strength to bring about the highest possible scholastic rating for our member fraternities and our University, and that we will continually endeavor to bring about the proper relationship between fraternities and scholarship."

Help Week Announced

Gifts Totaling $42,000 Accepted By Trustees

Gifts totaling more than $42,000, including $35,000 from the Keene land Foundation, were accepted by UK trustees Jan. 18.

The Keene land gifts included $25,000 a year's grant to the Agricultural Experiment Station for scientific and experimental projects aimed at improving the livestock industry of Kentucky.

Another $10,000 was given by the Grayson Foundation for work in the Animal Pathology Department.

"These grants-in-aid from the Keene land Foundation to the Agricultural Experiment Station for the purpose of carrying on scientific research and experimentation represent one of the most substantial gifts the University has received in many years," President H. L. Donovan said.

Donors and their gifts follow:

Sears Roebuck Foundation, $2380 to be used for scholarships in the field of geology during the summer; Keene land Foundation, $25,000 for the Agricultural Experiment Station; American Tobacco Co., $100 for the purchase of photographic film and materials for use by Russell A. Hunt in his work with tobacco.

Other gifts to the University include $10,000 from the Keene land Foundation for work in animal

Airline Has Jobs For 1600 Students

Hundreds of opportunities are being created for collegians this year by the expanded services of the United Air Lines' 13,500 mile system. More than 1600 vacancies will be filled this year, according to UAL personnel officials.

Many of the openings require at least two years of college. Co-eds are eligible for stewardess service and can qualify as sales, station, and passenger agents. The latter posts are open to men, age 21 to 30.

Men who have a commercial pilot's license from the Civil Aeronautics Administration, upon passing a thorough physical exam, can receive co-pilot training, expenses paid, at United's flight training center in Denver.

A wide range of positions requiring mechanical skill will be filled at various cities and at United's maintenance base in San Francisco.

Placement is also open to radio operators with second class radiotelephone licenses.

Complete details can be obtained from United's personnel offices in New York, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Seattle.

Labor Bureau Issues Occupation Handbook

According to Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, all students can get a great deal of helpful information in the 1951 edition of the "Occupational Outlook Handbook."

This publication, prepared by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics in cooperation with the Veterans Administration, contains up-to-date information on the facts needed in career planning for more than 400 occupations.

The data on immediate and long range employment outlook will be of special interest to college students since America's mobilization efforts in the last year have changed employment prospects for nearly every job in the country, whether or not it is related to defense. These data, together with those on training requirements, may help students make a wiser selection of a major and courses.

Personal copies of the 575-page, illustrated handbook may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for $3.00.

Study In Oslo Made Available To Students

Open competition for scholarships to the University of Oslo Summer School for American Students and Institute for English-Speaking Teachers were announced this week by the University.

A limited number of standard scholarships will be offered, some covering tuition, board and room, student and excursion fees, worth $225, and some covering tuition, student and excursion fees, worth $115.

In addition, the electro-chemical and electro-metallurgical industry of Norway is offering a limited number of Ralph Bunche Awards, in honor of the recipient of the 1951 Nobel Prize. These awards will range from $115 to $225, and are open to those interested in Norway's export trade.

The Norwegian America Line all-expense scholarship will be given to an American student whose main interest lies in the field of economics. It will cover round-trip passage from New York to Oslo, tourist class; board; room; tuition; and student and excursion fees at the Summer School.

Designations of scholarships will be made on the basis of financial need, provided the applicant meets all requirements for admission.

Both the Summer School and the Institute will be held from June 21 to Aug. 2.

A catalogue of courses, preliminary application material, or other information may be obtained by writing Oslo Summer School Admissions Office, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Designations of scholarships will be made on the basis of financial need, provided the applicant meets all requirements for admission.

If you have a class in that entrenched stronghold of the English and Math Departments, you know what I mean. If you don't understand, you must not be in Arts and Sciences.

Having signed ourselves into a McVey class for the first time this semester, we reached this astounding conclusion, after losing our first battle of the bottlenecks.

During classes the narrow stairways look peaceful enough, but just let the bell ring—

Long streams of students pour out of classroom doors and flow down the stairs. They converge on the northbound traffic coming up the stairs. Anybody with a tin whistle and an old Boy Scout badge want to play traffic cop?

The line that didn't win the first attack gets longer and longer until it nearly reaches down to the bookstore. The winner continues coming endlessly down the steps; it looks as if it extends all the way up to WBKY's third floor aerial.

If you are in the stalled line going up as we were the other day, you watch the blur of faces wearing that blank, I-just-want-to-get-out-

POOR PAUL was having a fowl time. Even his best gal didn't give a hoot for him. "Wise she hate me so?" he asked his roommate. "Simple, you stuffy old bird—because your hair's always ruffled up! Better try Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. And does three things: Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. (Even limb-ers up your scalp. And helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test!) Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a 'owling success. So why don't you take a taxi-de mist to any drug or toilet goods counter to get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. It's your hair's best friend! And ask for it at your barber shop. Then there's no talon how the chicks'll go for you."

Tennessee Invades Tomorrow As Ruppmen Seek 24th Win

Vols Are Expected To Be Victim 108 On Lexington Court

Kentucky and Tennessee meet on the basketball court tomorrow night for the 87th time. Kentucky has won 67 and Tennessee 27.

Tennessee, always a dangerous opponent in any sport, sports only a 10-5 record overall and a 5-4 string against SEC opponents. The Spoilers came to Lexington in January of 1939 and handed Kentucky its last SEC home floor defeat, 30-29. Since then Coach Rupp's basketball aggregations have compiled a string of 54 wins against teams from the SEC on its home court.

The Volunteers, led by Capt. Tommy Bartlett, gave the Cats a scare in Knoxville a few weeks back by hanging on for a 65-66 loss.

The Cats will be after their 24th win in 26 tries and 109th victory at home. The game has been a sellout since Wednesday.

Hagan Tops Statistics

Latest statistics released by Ken Kuhn, sports publicity editor, seem to uphold Cliff Hagan's mention for All America honors. Cliff has made 178 field goals for 460 points and a 20.9 game average. He leads in number of rebounds by snagging 352 and among the regulars in free throws. He has attempted 152 and made 104 for 68.4 per cent. Bill Evans, reserve and regular guard, has the highest percentage with 25 for 23 and 75.7 per cent.

The dubious distinction for the highest number of personal fouls belongs to Frank Ramsey with 78. Hagan is running a close second with 72.

Ruppmen Ravage Tech And Grab SEC Crown

Coach Rupp's Raiders won a game and the SEC championship in a convincing 83-42 rout of Georgia Tech last Saturday night at the Coliseum. Bob Watson with 23 points and Cliff Hagan with 18 were the big guns in the demolition.

It was a matter of just too much as the reserves, led by Gayle Rose's 12 points, completed the game. Tech's 6'6" forward, Pete Silas, vanquished the Tech squad with 17 points.

The Big Blue led 26-11, 42-21, 63-33 at the end of the first three periods before the reserves came in to finish the cleaning up processes. Kentucky hit for 39.7 per cent and Tech for 25.7 per cent.

Wildcats Blast State And Establish Record

Coach Paul Gregory and his Mississippi State Maroons put up a gallant fight last Monday night before succumbing to the big guns of Kentucky in a 110-68 rout.

Gregory and his squad joined the ever growing list of teams who have felt the blow of Adolph Rupp's high scoring basketball team.

Cliff Hagan and Frank Ramsey, with 30 and 29 points respectively, led the Wildcats to a new Coliseum scoring record. The previous high was the 103 points scored against Tulane Feb. 4.

The Big Blue led by 27-18 at the end of the first period and increased this to 55-35 at intermission time. The Wildcats had a whopping 53.4 shooting percentage for their first half efforts. The final percentages were a nifty 44.5 for the Cats and 31.9 for the Maroons. The reserves played the entire third quarter and piled up 33 points for the losers.

Captain Coyt Vance contributed 18 points for the losers.

Entry Deadline Today For I-M Basketball; Play Begins Feb. 19

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will open defense of its intramural basketball championship when play begins at Alumni Gym Feb. 19.

The deadline for entries in the round-robin tournament, which will precede the single elimination, is noon today. The top four teams in each division will qualify for the single elimination.

Each team will be composed of fifteen men and there may be a change of three men no later than the third game. The games will be played under high school rules with the only exception being 15 instead of 20 minute halves.

Each team entered in the tournament is entitled to two practice sessions of one hour each before the tournament. These sessions may be obtained in the Physical Education office in Alumni Gym. Practice times may also be acquired not later than 1:00 p.m. of the day desired if there are unreserved times.

Door Open For UK As Tourney Site; Work To Begin Soon On Practice Field; Students Deserve Tryouts For Baseball

When Kentucky dumped Georgia Tech and L.S.U. defeated Tulane Saturday night, the Wildcats grabbed their ninth straight Southeastern Conference championship. The Cats are thus assured of a berth in the N.C.A.A. Regional Tournament to be held for the second straight year at Raleigh, N.C. Their opponent, in all probability, will be selected from an eastern at-large team. The Cats defeated Louisville in the regional play-offs last season.

Kentucky had hoped to have Memorial Coliseum selected for the regional tournament this year but the N.C.A.A. tournament committee, headed by Dutch Lomborg, chairman and athletic director at Kansas, again selected the N. C. State gymnasium.

Behind the door conversations when the site was selected last summer had the committee turning thumbs down on the U.K. offer because negro players had not performed on the Coliseum floor.

Participation by colored players with opponents of the Wildcats this season gives the tourney committee no excuse for overlooking the ideal conditions offered by the Coliseum.

Blue Grass fans seem to have a right to see their favorite club in a national tournament. Coach Adolph Rupp has led his teams to more national championships than any other team in the nation and it seems UK should be given every consideration as a tourney site next year.

Facilities at UK are far superior to those offered by Seattle, where the finals will be played this year. The tournament committee couldn't pick a better location for the 1953 finals than Lexington.

Director of Athletics Bernie Shively said work on the new football practice field will begin as soon as weather permits. The contract has been let and the contractors are just waiting for the ground to get in shape for bulldozing.

About five acres of land off Rose Street and near the Aeronautical Engineering Building is reserved for the field. Work on the field was set to begin last fall but experiments in corn growing were allowed to continue. Then inclement weather conditions delayed work.

There will be room for three regulation size playing fields on the new lot. Spring football practice will be held on the practice field beside Stoll Field but coaches hope the new field will be ready for fall practice.

Spring practice is scheduled to begin March 1 and will end April 1. Southeastern Conference rules allow 20 practice sessions within a period of 30 days. Coach Bryant said he wants to finish grid drills in time to allow the football players time to participate in one of the spring sports. Several of the grid stars fit into the baseball plans of baseball coach Harry Lancaster.

When the first call for baseball candidates sounds there will be a lot of boys sincerely interested in a tryout. They should be given a good chance to show their ability.

In the past years, baseball aspirants have reported to the practice field for a couple of brief workouts and then told they have been cut from the squad. The majority of positions have been filled by players of football or basketball.

This column has nothing against players of other sports who prove their ability at baseball. Some students, however, have more ability and greater interest in baseball than they have in other fields and should get every chance to play. More opportunities for professional play is offered by baseball than any other sport. College ball is one of the most direct routes to pro baseball. No player with sights set on a baseball career should be denied the opportunity to play in college without a thorough tryout.

A screening process could be established whereby every boy interested in baseball could compete for a position and determine for himself if he is capable of playing in the SEC league. It would be tough on the coaching staff and would require a longer period of practice but the desire of all concerned is to field the st. gest possible team. Some members of a stronger team might be overlooked without a conscientious tryout.

It is hoped every boy interested in baseball will answer practice call and that each will be given every opportunity to prove his ability.

Former Grid Stars Return To UK To Complete Studies

McDermott, Bruno, Yowarsky And Gain Back In School

By Don Armstrong

With the professional football season over, a number of Kentucky's former gridiron stars have returned to the University to put the finishing touches on their college educations.

Among those who have momentarily shed the trappings of the play-for-pay system are Bob Gain, Walt Yowarsky, Lloyd McDermott, all of whom earned their "K's" at tackle positions for the Wildcats, and Al Bruno, the high-scoring end.

McDermott, the senior member of the group, is working on his master's degree in education, and hopes to complete his studies by the summer session. Mac was drafted after his graduation in June of '50 to play for the Philadelphia Eagles, but stayed with that outfit only long enough to complete the pre-season exhibition series that season. He saw action with the Eagles when the then reigning champions bowed to the College All-Stars 17-7 at Soldier's Field in Chicago.

Most of the time Gain played left tackle for the Riders, but his assignments varied from playing fullback and backing the defensive line to catching tackle-eligible passes. Bob was an All-Canadian selection and was picked as the outstanding lineman of the year, his first in professional competition.

In evaluating the play of the Canadians, Gain said that most of the players measure up very well with gridders from the United States. He added, however, that many of the linemen lacked grooming in the basic fundamentals stressed so heavily here in the States.

The Rough Riders posted a season record of seven wins and four losses, but rallied to win all four games of the playoff series for the Gray Cup, symbol of the Canadian football championship. Gain said it was the first time in the 25-year history of the league that Ottawa had been able to capture the title.

Gain In Canadian League

Bob Gain, who decided to cross the border and play in the Canadian League, had an outstanding season with the Ottawa Rough Riders. The former All-American was among the high scorers of the conference, counting most of his 60-point total on conversions and field goals. He scored one touchdown when he blocked a punt and recovered the ball in the end zone.

Yowarsky spent the past season with the Washington Redskins, third place winners in their division of the National Football League. They were fronted only by the champion Cleveland Browns and the New York Giants.

Yowarsky was used as a defensive end by the Redskins, a capacity he first performed in his final game for the Wildcats, that being in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's, 1951. He, along with Gain, played for the College All-Stars last August when the Browns dealt their amateur cousins a sound defeat.

Yowarsky should complete his bachelor's degree in June, at the same time as Gain. The two have found a duplex apartment and are rooming together near Lafayette High School.

Al Bruno rounds out the list of former Kentucky players now completing their educations. He was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles and has been playing at his customary end position. Bruno distinguished himself at the University by leading the season scoring race for the Southeastern Conference in 1950.
